Statement	I have been involved in ice hockey for over 40 years as a player, coach, and administrator. I am currently the President of the Irish Ice Hockey Association for the past 6 years. I also serve on the Dublin Flying Ducks committee and act as head coach for their youth teams. Through these two organisations I dedicate the majority of my time on youth development. It has always been my belief that sport, particularly for young people, is crucial for health and development throughout life. On an adult basis for sport, I have worked to provide a structured cross border ice hockey league. Games are played in Belfast with teams from the Republic as well as Northern Ireland. We are rapidly closing in on the
